

Youth-Friendly Workshops and Presentations for Youth

Do you know youth who want to get involved in their communities but don't know where to start? Do they ask you why they should even bother? Or are the youth you work with already engaged citizens, but they need help in getting their unengaged peers involved?

Apathy is Boring is a national youth-led charitable organization that uses art and technology to educate youth about democracy.

We offer dynamic and hands-on workshops and presentations for youth from 18 - 35 years, that explain why they should get involved and give them the training and resources they will need to become active citizens.

Our workshops and presentations include:

- Civic Participation: For unengaged youth, giving them the basics about voting, volunteering, getting in touch with elected officials, and the how and why of becoming an active citizen.
- Reaching Your Unengaged Peers: For young leaders, getting them out of their comfort zone and to start thinking about why their 'unengaged peers' aren't involved and what to do about it.

All of our workshops and presentations are led by an Apathy is Boring staff member. We are a young, diverse group that is committed to making these workshops and presentations interactive and accessible. All workshops will be tailored to meet the specific needs of any group we present to.

For more information about what we can offer, email: youthfriendly@apathyisboring.com

Over the past eight years, Apathy is Boring has been successful in reaching hundreds of thousands of young Canadians through our programming, while at the same time working with dozens of organizations across Canada, supporting their efforts to reach and engage youth. Apathy is Boring, through our Youth-Friendly program, has partnered with the Canadian Red Cross, the City of Kitchener, Canada World Youth, the Canadian Parks Council, Elections Alberta and Elections Canada, among many others.

